

ACPA - Putting the Issues Forward...

ADVOCACY

There is a need for coordination between the disability sector to ensure that the needs of people with disabilities are advocated for in a strong and consistent manner. However, no one group or peak body will be able to do that effectively. In fact, peak body arrangements which are developed simply for administrative ease, will never truly reflect the range of complex needs which, in turn, will never truly reflect the range of complex needs which, in turn, will result in less informed government policy. ACPA has a real desire to continue to represent the needs of people with cerebral palsy and other similar disabilities.<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Box, Greg and Knowles, John, (2001), "Putting the issues forward", ACtion PAcked, vol. 6, no. 1, pp. 6-7